An Incunabulum

To mirror Cradock life in all its eminence is the design of the 1968 Admiral. Each phase of life is sought out, magnified, and perfected to reflect accurately the abounding spirit that is Cradock's own. These aspects of life are as variegated threads united into one skein, from which each person can unravel a portion to weave his own garment and embellish it selectively with academics, art, music, drama, and extra-curricular activities of the highest quality. Within each student is instilled a keen awareness of the surrounding rarity, distinction, and individuality. There is available an unequalled selection of opportunities to elevate one's life and to augment the scope of one's mind. Diversity in old and new, formality and informality, converge to color a unique portrait of many combined to form one. For such a school, an Incunabulum is appropriate.

Mrs. Bruce catches a breath after a long hour of teaching French grammar.

The Language Arts Department functions under the guidance of Miss Green, English chairman, and of Mrs. Bruce, foreign language chairman. As a section with which all students must come into direct contact, the Language Arts Department exerts a great influence. All English instruction has as its aim teaching communication characterized by clarity and effectiveness. Many students reap future career benefits from the French, Spanish, or Latin courses which they now take with great interest and enjoyment. Speech, dramatics, and journalism are ungrouped electives offered. Students may also participate in publication of the literary magazine and year-book. Provided by the entire department is the development of skills to be used for future advancement and enjoyment.

Mr. Wulzer goes over his upcoming week's plans.

To Mrs. Morgan belong the responsibilities of the Mathematics Department. In addition to five years of academic math, general and vocation math are also available. The latter is geared to prepare future skilled tradesman, such as mechanics and plumbers. The consumer course supplies practical applications for everyday living; mathematics of estimating, installment payments, banking, checking, loans, and budgeting are taught. Through its varied and well-rounded program, Cradock uniquely administers to the math needs of all its students.

To Mrs. Foust, Algebra isn't as hard as students' test papers seem to indicate.

From his desk, Mr. Shackelford watches students perform their assigned problems.

Business Education Provides A Broad Background for Future Employment

Mrs. Pannell oversees the workings of the Business Department. Clerical, secretarial, and general office instruction are provided. A wide program is available, ranging from general electives offered for all students to V.O.T. part-time training for senior girls; this includes two hours of outside work in addition to an hour class. Cradock's business department boasts a modern shorthand lab and is proud of being one of the first schools east of the Mississippi River to own electric typewriters. Students enrolled in Cradock's business courses are well-prepared to enter today's executive world.

Study Hall is a far cry from Mrs. Brown's Physical Ed. class.

Activities of the Physical Education Department, coordinated by Mr. Bell, embody Cradock's belief that physical well-being must combine with mental alertness to complete an individual's development. Qualities of sportsmanship and leadership are inspired, group participation is encouraged, and health ideals are instilled in students. In addition to this integration of physical, mental, emotional, and social maturity, the department also stresses driver training as an important means of readying young people for their future positions in a democratic society.

Mr. Bell sometimes finds the boys in Phy. Ed. more trying than at other times.

The Industrial Arts Department, under the supervision of Mr. Clements, includes mechanical drawing and the wood, metal, and electricity shops. In preparation for draftsmen, engineers, and architects, mechanical drawing offers three years encompassing simple geometric construction as well as complicated architectural designs. Wood shop, taught by Mr. Perkinson, helps students meet requirements for area naval installations and their apprentice programs. Mr. Kloepfel's metal shop program involves working with sheet metals and the machining, welding, and casting of metals. Participants in basic electricity classes experiment, under the direction of Mr. Lewis, in electronics. Cradock offers extremely diversified training in Industrial Arts.

Mr. Lewis' explanations help make Electronics easier to understand.

Cultural Aspects of Cradock Broaden Admirals' Personalities

Activities of the Fine Arts Department are coordinated by Mrs. Staffon. Under her supervision, the areas of art, band, chorus, and drama remain in a unified group. To this department belongs the credit for Cradock's excellent art displays and numerous musical and dramatic presentations. Fine Arts add a valuable dimension to our student life.

Mrs. Staffon's instructions in art class have helped many students produce remarkable pieces of work.

All Band activities are under the direction of Mr. Barley.

Vocational Education Offers Preparation for A Technical Tomorrow

The Vocational Education Department functions successfully under the direction of Mr. Comey; included in this area are I.C.T., L.P.N., D.E., and Home Economics. Designed for those students who are not college-bound, the program includes preparation for jobs following graduation which require technical skills. This vocational and technical education recognizes needs of individuals. By helping to prepare youths to take their places in an expanding economy, Vocational Education contributes importantly to Virginia's industrial growth.

Guidance Services Are A Vital Asset To Every High School Student's Career

Mr. Byrd is an honorary guidance counselor.

Guidance director, Mrs. Pollard, is assisted by counselors for the freshman, sophomore, and junior classes and a full-time office clerk. The department initiated an orientation program to familiarize new students with Cradock. Through the expert counseling provided, students learn to recognize their own abilities and to plan for the new goals and interests which they establish. One of the guidance force's main objectives is to aid all students in schedule planning in order to offer adequate preparation for the future.

The Guidance Department would be lost without the office knowledge of Mrs. Deal.

Craddock Incorporates Special and Ungraded Education Into Its Curriculum

Special Education, taught by Mrs. Gregg, is devised for those students who because of exceptionalities, need a program planned to fulfill their needs. Courses of study are geared to possess suitability to the individual and to enable him to progress at his own speed and ability. At the high school stage, special education curriculum includes preparatory training for employment and community position. Such special teaching has as its goal the formation of worthwhile, productive individuals.

Mr. Robert Chappell's ungraded classes have been developed for the benefit of those students affected by such things as interrupted education, perhaps due to moving, and who therefore do not perform to the height of their capabilities. Ungraded education is a work-study program, having as its goal the gearing and programming of such academically qualified students to re-enter normal academic achievement. The remainder of ungraded students receive preparation for job interviews and are readied for apprenticeships or on-the-job training. Ungraded study at Craddock has been successful in obtaining employment positions for each of its ten students.

Mrs. Gregg demonstrates a new project with her class.

Mr. Chappell discusses school plans with Mr. Fulmer.

Cradock Students Render Special Services

Helping Cradock to operate as a whole composed of many cooperative parts are the students who volunteer part-time service. During lunches in the cafeteria, the traffic committee directs the masses so that no area will become congested, thus stopping the smooth flow of long lunch lines. The general office and guidance office are assisted by volunteers during their study halls. Tasks for workers in both offices involve telephone-answering, filing, answering questions, aiding visitors in any way possible, and general errand-running. Most guidance assistants concern themselves with "running" for students with whom the counselors wish to speak. The attendance office is yet another significant area of student help. Here, records of absences are kept and students are issued excuses, permitting return to classes following absences. Infirmary aids maintain records of students and their reasons for visiting the infirmary. Additionally, the aids assist the school nurse in administering to injuries and sickness and in checking sight, weight, and height during the yearly examination.

The cafeteria is maintained under the capable hands of Mrs. LeCompte.

The school furnace is kept up by Mr. Matthews, the custodian.

to Success

Guided by Miss Cora Mae Fitzgerald and President Bill Smith, the Student Cooperative Association has functioned to serve school and community and to promote understanding not only between students and faculty but also among the students themselves. Projects have included a community-wide magazine drive, the annual Miss Cradock Contest, a Homecoming float, morning coffee and doughnuts in the cafeteria, a Christmas party for underprivileged children, and the securing of new national and state flags, which were presented during a flag ceremony for which the student body gathered around the flagpole. A busy and productive year well describes the efforts of the 1967-68 S.C.A. members. The student forum headed by S.C.A. vice-president, Susan Bailey, was comprised of delegates and alternates elected from individual homerooms. This organization served as a special link to strengthen the relationship students have with their government.

Sponsor: Miss Fitzgerald

Secretary and Treasurer of S.C.A.: Brenda Swain, Phil Smith.

Freshman Representatives: Pam Bryant, Leslie Trent, Rachel Borum.

Junior Representatives: Addison Daniel, Sandra Hardie, Anne Trent, Celeste Pittman.

Inter-Club Council Represents Guiding Light For Clubs

This year, the Inter-Club Council has been very successful under the leadership of Brenda Swain. The main goal this year was to stress the importance of club activities and solve the many problems surrounding them.

Marcia Seiger, Treasurer; Margaret Hayes, President; Mrs. Bruce, Sponsor; Judy Prints, Secretary; Diane Dodd, Vice-President.

This year the J.J. Booker, Jr. chapter of the National Honor Society has worked especially diligently in acknowledging intellectual pursuits. The induction ceremony, particularly memorable, enlarged the society to forty-one members. One of the most significant aspects that the society has displayed throughout the year has been the uniformity in attendance at meetings and support of activities. The energetic work on the part of the members, manifested itself when a $75.00 scholarship was awarded to Eddie Agricola.

N.H.S. Is Every Student's Goal

Art Club Exhibits Exceptional Talent

Mary Martin, Norma Shook, Robert Holland, JoAnn Strickland, JoAnn Wright, Anna Etheridge, Johnnie Atkinson, Mrs. Staffon.

Art Club Float wins "Most-Original" in Homecoming parade.

With the extraordinary ability of art students, the Art Club has performed with the aid of sponsor Mrs. Netta Staffon and President JoAnne Wright. An atmosphere of art appreciation has been launched by the many varied displays throughout school and community. Halls, showcases, assemblies, and special occasions would be incomplete without the Art Department's decorative touch. In addition to accomplishments in areas such as sketching, painting, and sculpture, an award-winning club float was built to extend a timely welcome to Cradock's 1957 graduates in an attractive Homecoming parade.

Bible Club Marks High Qualities

Cradock's Bible Club, sponsored by Mrs. Margaret Cone, held as its purpose this year the spreading of an atmosphere of Christian fellowship. Members conducted a year of service. A float was entered in the Homecoming parade, a Thanksgiving assembly was held for the student body, and a child was sponsored at the annual Children's Christmas Party. In addition to these activities, the Bible Club also helped to sponsor the yearly district banquet and a picnic for all area Bible Clubs.

Ramona Speights, Carl Perkins, Cathy Gowdy, David Lindsay, Becky McKee, Paula Varney, Joann Truitt, Cynthia Ruiz, Michelle Bailey.

Carl Perkins, Vice-President; Cynthia Ruiz, Chaplain; Cathy Gowdy, Secretary; David Lindsay, President.

As one of Cradock's interest organizations, the Science and Math Club operates under the sponsorship of Mr. Claude Rollins. Stimulating student appreciation and interest in the areas of mathematics and sciences are main club objectives. To attain these goals this year under Steve Caminer's presidency, the club has participated in informative projects. Among them have been various field trips such as a fossil hunt at Ricer's Pit.

Paul Ford, Mary Baines, Betty Brown, Brenda Taylor, Susan Balsor, Tommy Caminer, David Bond, Hank Jacox.

Science and Math Club Stimulates Student Interest

Quill and Scroll Encourage Student Journalists

Co-sponsors: Mrs. Glazer and Mrs. Comer. Seated: President, Anna Etheridge. Standing: Vice-president, Delores White; Treasurer, Johnnie Atkinson; Secretary, Wendy Slade.

Quill & Scroll, a chapter of the National Quill & Scroll Society, is an honorary club. To arouse interest in the three school publications, the Cradock chapter sponsored a literary contest; winners were awarded cash prizes. This year, the Quill & Scroll chapter recognized seventeen new members for individual efforts and contributions to the Shipmate, the Log, and the Admiral. These students are juniors and seniors holding high scholastic averages who are outstanding in the literary field.

Kappa

Seated: Judy Printz, Beth Dew, Judy Bennett, Barbara Sharpe, Barbara Brandt, Lynnette Hargrove, Lila Printz, Toni Constantino. Standing: Cheryl Cobb, Vickie Allison, Donna Deal, Shelia Widener, Dreama Tilley, Peggy Jenkins, Ann Thorpe, Linda Wright.

Led by President Cheryl Cobb, and co-sponsors Miss Myers and Miss Edgar, Kappa initiated an eventful year. Club members sent supplies to Viet Nam, aided the American Cancer Society, and visited Naval Hospital patients. Parties were held at St. Mary's Infant Home and Westhaven Boy's Home. During the year, Kappa rallied school spirit by decorating goal posts, hanging spirit posters, selling Homecoming banquet tickets, and entering a float in the Homecoming parade. Service projects included painting bus ramp pillars, holding honor roll parties, purchasing a coffee pot for the teachers, co-sponsoring the Log Rebellion literary contest, and sponsoring two children at Christmas. Culminating a worthwhile year, Kappa presented, on the basis of club service, twenty-five dollar savings bonds to three college-bound seniors.

Delta Strives for the Best

Delta carried an objective of raising funds for charitable organizations. An autumn car wash supplied fifteen dollars to the March of Dimes; for this same cause, club members also sold bread in January. Service projects such as canvassing the community for annual drives, including the United Fund, cerebral palsy, and the American Cancer Society, provided large sums of money for the foundations concerned. Delta worked diligently in service to school and community.

F.T.A. Develops Teaching Interests

Cradock's Future Teachers of America has led an active year. Providing coffee and doughnuts for new teachers and acknowledging teachers' birthdays throughout the year with small gifts were some of the thoughtful remembrances supplied. Club spirit was evidenced by a Homecoming float and by a sign commemorating National Education Week. More important among activities were three district meetings, one of which was held at Cradock in which the Cradock Chapter participated. Becky Ditter was among the delegates to a state convention, and there she ran for office. The F.T.A. Clinic constituted an interesting and informative "swap-shop" where ideas were exchanged with other schools. To recognize Teacher Career Month, junior and senior club members taught for one day in area schools. Also, during the course of the year, members were allowed to substitute teach whenever called upon. The Future Teachers of America and Sponsors Mrs. Terry Brady and Mrs. Sally Bluemel appropriately ended a year of accomplishment with a banquet at Portsmouth Holiday Inn.

Thespians Dramatize School Life

Membership in the National Thespian Society is a privilege earned via the upholding of high standards and ideals in dramatic arts. To qualify, a student must have earned a minimum of ten literary points in the dramatics field and then be voted in by present troupe members. From this small, select group came the Homecoming parade's clowns. The Cradock society of Thespians has been sponsored by Mrs. Anne Haynes.

Into debating go perserverance, extensive research, and intensive study. The debate team, co-sponsored by Mrs. Jane Wilkinson and Mrs. Sally Bluemel, has led a valuable season. Planning and preparation determine a debate's success, judged not by whether it be won or lost but by the degree and quality of the participation. The knowledge, confidence, and ability gleaned from debating experience justify the time, energy, and thought put into a worthwhile meet.

I.C.T. Provides Work Experience For Students

The Industrial Cooperative Training Program involves a plan to implement Cradock's student-training resources. An arrangement exists among community and public high school business, industrial, and professional establishments for furnishing to students part-time employment during school hours. In this endeavor, Cradock furnishes necessary technical information related to the occupations. A controlling objective of this program is the provision of instruction for high school juniors and seniors to enable them to be well-prepared for employment in a trade identical or closely allied to the one in which they have been trained.

Mrs. Harriet Heath has led her choruses through a year of expressive musical talent. Entertaining at special assemblies and representing Cradock at various musical programs have been chief duties of the chorus. Projects such as candy and doughnut sales have raised the necessary funds. The student body was presented a moving Christmas assembly, conveying the season's spiritual significance. To culminate a quality year, a formal spring concert was performed for students and community members. At that time, Mrs. Heath recognized outstanding students of long service to Cradock's choral department.

The Cradock High School Marching Band has noted a year of musical accomplishment under the direction of Mr. William Barley. Leading spirited football games and providing half-time shows are well-remembered autumn activities. In the spring, the concert band presented an outstanding performance. Cradock rated high in the area band festival. Assemblies featuring the band were a student favorite and special musical selections by the group a highlight of all other assemblies. Records of the spring concert were made available to the student body. Cradock's band was also featured in parades, such as the Homecoming and Memorial Day parades, due to its noted marching form and precision.

Mrs. Glazer
Sponsor

Keeping the student body informed of all happenings at Cradock is the function of the Shipmate staff, sponsored by Mrs. Jane Glazer and co-edited by Liz Carter and Eddie Agricola. Producing a newspaper, issued at six-week intervals, requires the combined and concentrated efforts of all journalism students. Cooperation is paramount in the planning of page layouts. To report interestingly, concisely, and accurately is the goal of all staff members. This year the Admirals have enjoyed a factual and informative Shipmate. As a bonus, a senior issue, containing a Senior Special of news, was published; items such as class song, poem, and history, college choices, and baby pictures were featured. This year at the SIPA convention, Cradock's Shipmate received a first place newspaper award.

A very productive year was experienced by Mrs. Sharon Comer's Log Staff. Under the editorship of Judy Printz, two of the most imaginative of the magazine's editions were issued. From the S.I.P.A. Convention at Washington and Lee University in Lexington, the Log's creativity received the honor of special recognition. Cradock's literary magazine depends for its existence upon student contributions. Staff members selected submitted works of sufficient merit to equal the Log's established standards of quality. Student support this year has allowed the Log to maintain its tradition of contemporary excellence.

Admiral Staff Creates a Book of Memories

The annual staff has worked diligently this year in a relentless effort to overcome inevitable obstacles in producing a quality yearbook. Co-editors Diane Dodd and Bill Harrell continued several traditional aspects while at the same time initiating many improvements. By being presented an Achievement Award at the S.I.P.A. Convention, the 1967 Admiral became one of sixteen schools yearbooks to receive such an award. Co-sponsors Miss Carolyn Green and Mr. Claude Rollins have tried to lead their staff to produce a 1968 Admiral of enduring quality and lasting value to Cradock students.

the Fighting Cradock Admirals on the Gridiron

Don Ballard keeps the ball from Granby.

Hale races against Wilson defense.

Thad Parsons stands by with Coach Weldon as Coach Strickland reports to the Press Box.

Although the Admirals scored low in points, they ranked high in sportsmanship, determination, and endurance. Supported by cheerleaders and enthusiastic rooters, the men of the gridiron bravely confronted all opponents with typical Cradock drive. The opening game against Deep Creek, a loss by one touchdown, was Cradock's first defeat by Deep Creek in four years. To compensate for this, Cradock triumphed over the Oscar Smith Tigers in a rousing 38-7 Southeastern District match with quarterback Earl Chinn the leader in passing and rushing. In the fourth game of the season, the Admirals enjoyed their traditional victory over Granby by overcoming 110 yards in penalties with the aid of Chinn's passes to Darrell Parsons and Don Ballard, one of the district's fastest guards. The Bay-side game was Cradock's second consecutive win with David Umberger leading in touchdowns and yardage gains. The game against Norview, though a loss for the Admirals, was highlighted by Chinn's preventing the Pilots from scoring until the last quarter. Ballard completed the longest play by receiving a 48-yard pass from Chinn, a leading district quarterback. The following game, Cradock versus Churchland, was a stirring 31-13 victory in which Chinn, John Hale, and Willie Dunlow starred. Culminating the Admiral's football season was the fight against Wilson. Throughout a trying season, Cradock maintained a perfect record of quality sportsmanship.

To honor Francis Bellamy, author of the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, Dr. Margarette S. Miller originated the National Bellamy Award in 1942. An additional purpose included in this award is the encouragement of patriotism and citizenship training, coupled with emphasis on the value of free public education. This year, Brenda Swain represented Cradock High School in Tuscon, Arizona. Miss Miller, with the Bellamy Advisory Board, each year selects an outstanding, representative secondary school in a different state for receiving this honorary award.

Romaine Carroll presides over a business meeting of Homecoming Committee members: Alice Apel, Linda Barkley, Susan Bailey, Linda Perdue, Nadine Browne, Barbara Bailey, Lacy Ransone, Katherine Cummings, and Brenda Swain.

As the excitement of Homecoming spreads its spirited mood over Cradock's community, the Seniors elect a Homecoming queen and representatives from each class form her court. Clubs participate in the season's activities by building festive floats to welcome the Class of 1957. Viewing the parade through the streets of Cradock, children squeal with delight, adults smile reflectingly, and students proudly identify their own efforts. Later that evening, a banquet honors 1957 graduates. A dance follows the Admirals' rousing football game with Maury. Climaxing Homecoming, Principal T.W. Gray crowns Homecoming queen Margaret Hayes in a coronation ceremony on the field at half-time. Homecoming is a unique but integral part of Cradock life.

SCA Campaigns

Arrayed in a variety of costumes, students colorfully campaigned for S.C.A. candidates of their choice. Election Day was a memorable occasion for students using city voting machines. As hopeful candidates awaited tabulation results, tension mounted. The intensity broke when Addison Daniel was announced president; Maureen McNabb, vice-president; Celeste Pittman, secretary; and Jeannie Ellis, treasurer. Officers-elect joined with present officers for a beneficial exchange of ideas, opinions, and advice.

Baccalaureate Reveals A Serious Moment

The auditorium assumed a solemn atmosphere for afternoon baccalaureate ceremonies on Sunday, June 2. As the audience arose to the dignity of a senior processional, a serious facet of personalities was unveiled. Reverend J. Floyd Carroll's invocation was followed by an inspiring choral rendition of "Climb Every Mountain." The focus of baccalaureate was upon a most unusual, but fitting, sermon delivered by The Reverend C. Charles Vache of Trinity Episcopal Church. Upon a topic concerning world conditions, Father Vache spoke with impressive candor and frankness. Preceding Reverend Carroll's benediction, the chorus sang a meaningful "You'll Never Walk Alone," which derived a poignancy from the occasion. In completion, a senior recessional climaxed baccalaureate services.

Reverend J. Floyd Carroll gives the invocation to begin Baccalaureate exercises.

The condition of the world today was the topic of Father Vache's Baccalaureate sermon.

Seniors regard Baccalaureate as a serious moment in their lives.

The chorus rendered a special selection during Baccalaureate.

Commencement Marks The End And The Beginning

On June 6, 1968, in the Cradock High School Stadium, more than 200 students received their diplomas. The excitement, sadness, and thrill of the occasion was expressed on every individual who donned a cap and gown. The same feeling was also felt by many in the audience. Speeches were based on T.S. Eliot's quote, "What is the meaning of the city? Do you huddle close together because you love each other?" The band provided entertainment. Awards and scholarships were presented by Mr. T.W. Gray, the principal of Cradock. Next came the anticipated moment of the evening, Mr. Gray, with the help of Mr. R.E. Byrd, assistant principal, awarded diplomas to the graduating seniors of 1968. No longer were they Cradock High School students. Their lives had ended here only to begin somewhere else. However the memories, footsteps, and handprints of each individual still haunt the halls and rooms of Cradock High School.

Senior Class President Beau Light calls the final assembly to order.

Prior to Commencement exercises, graduating seniors file onto the field and take their positions.

Mr. Booker presents to Diane Dodd the Balfour Award, a scholarship for citizenship, loyalty, and achievement.

S.C.A. President Bill Smith receives a good citizenship medal from former principal, Mr. J.J. Booker, Jr.

Speeches Reflect the Seriousness

At graduation, Valedictorian Phyllis Doughtie expounds on "Where is the life we have lost in living?"

of Life After Graduation

"What is the meaning of the city? Do you huddle close together because you love each other?" This quotation, a paragon of conciseness by British poet T.S. Eliot, served as the theme for the 1968 graduation. Class president Beau Light was master of ceremonies. Facing the western side of the stadium crowded with observers, four speakers presented their topics relating to Eliot's quote. Valedictorian Phyllis Doughtie first attempted to answer the query, "Where is the wisdom we have lost in knowledge?" Following Class Attorney Bill Harrell delivered his message by asking "Where is the knowledge we have lost in information?" S.C.A. President Bill Smith expounded the values of quality citizenship with "Have you built well? Have you forgotten the cornerstone?" The theme of Commencement was further pursued by salutatorian Steve Caminer's developing "What life have you if you have not life together?" Graduation exercises indeed marked a milestone and a turning point as well in the lives of 212 robed seniors. The present is a time to be built upon with past experience in the assurance of a well-constructed future. As evening breezes enveloped participants and on-lookers with an air of solemnity, the acute realization of life's upheaval was intensely impressed upon the seated students. But underneath the pseudo-turmoil and change flowed a current of calm constancy. Commencement is a series of memorable occurrences, each as an Incunabulum in the life of the one experiencing it. As present sadness foresaw future joy, new Cradock High School alumni formed a climactic recessionary.

Salutatorian Steve Caminer, achiever of a perfect 800 math score on College Entrance Examination Board, speaks on "What life have you if you have not life together?"
